Chapter One

The talk

“Hey Mr. Billard,” said Ryan as he walked out of his house to take out the trash for his mom.

“Oh, Hi Ryan hows it going,” said Mr. Billard

“Good just turned 13 over the summer.”

“That's so Cool” he said with

“How are you doing in school ?”

“Good ,I guess”

“I would hope so”

Ryan laughed and said “Yea, my mom is calling me in for dinner so i got to go” acting as if he was lying.

“Okay bye” jack said as he walked into his house

Ryan was not going inside to eat diner he just never liked talking about school. When ever his parents would ask him about school he would answer in one word.....”Good” and get out of the conversation as quick as possible. He hated going to school, he just never liked to learn. he always got average grades. He was a quiet boy in school, he only had like 2 or 3 friends that he actually talked too. He always tried to play sick but his mother knew better. He did anything he could to get himself out of school. it actually worked sometimes when he did a good job of lieng.

Ryan quickly ate diner and went to bed dreading because he had school the next day. the last thing he said was i hope i never have to go to school again. Then went to sleep. while Ryan was sleeping he had a dream. it was a really weird dream it was a huge glowing figure that was tall and wide and a huge head and it was floating. The figure spoke to him ,it said “Ryan, you never have to go to school ever again but you will pay the price” his whole dream went blank for the rest of the night. He woke up the next and shouted down the stairs, ‘ Mom, I’m not feeling good.....mom....Mom!”

No one was answering , Ryan dashed downstairs. He looked everywhere for his mom. He rushed out the door and he noticed the whole neighborhood was blank. he looked over and he saw Mr. Billard standing outside staring blankly at the neighborhood. he said, “every ones gone”

The Bad News

Ryan had no idea what to do because he was still so confused. Hi, and Mr. Billard walked over to each other and started to talk.

“Mr. Billard, whats going on” Ryan said

“Every one is gone, its like we are the only ones left on earth.’

all of the sudden the sky broke out in thunder and lightning and it started to rain hard. A huge voice came from the sky and the glowing figure from Ryans dream came down from the sky but was still a distance away. It said that Ryan and Jack are one of the only things on earth and there family members were trapped around the world and they needed to save them. They could use anything they could and do anything they could. A book came flying down from the sky and everything went back to normal, sunny and empty. They opened the book it said were all the family members were and they have only 11 months to complete this, task or else....

Mr. Billard said “ This is terrible, what happened we have to save our families” Ryan knew what that thing was he was so upset, “Mr. bllard, when should we start” “Today, oh and call me Jack”

Ryan and jack went in Jacks house and read the book. Jack said “My wife is in Hawaii and your Mom is in California. That was far away knowing they were in New Jersey. Jack said “this is going to be much harder than i thought” Drove jacks car to the airport and on the way there jack had an idea. They stopped at a motor cycle store nearby and they both rode kawasaki motorcycles to the airport. Ryan said that his dad was a pilot and he taught him a little on how to fly a plane. When they got to the airport they picked out a plane and they went inside of it to fly to California. When they got in the plane they saw this huge tornado coming straight for them in the distance.

Chapter three

Ryan's Mom

Ryan said "quickly we have to move theres a tornado!"

"oh no lets get out of here" jack said in a hurry

Ryan started the plane and they quickly drove down the runway and shot of the ramp and were flying. they were on there way to California with a huge tornado following them. Once they got high enough the tornado was gone. They were flying for a long time, almost 19 hours until they stoped in California. the only problem was Ryan forgot how to land a plane. Jack said to Ryan " Hope your okay with skydiving" Usually a kid would be terrified but Ryan was actually excited. "but what are we going to do with the plane we cant just crash it"

jack said "yes we can theres no one on earth"

"Oh yea" Jack and Ryan searched the plan for parachutes while circling over a baseball stadium to land in. the opened and emergency door and jumped out and let the plane go. As they were falling they were talking to each other. jack said when i say i go pull your parachute open,okay?"....."yea"....."go!"

Ryan and jack pulled there parachutes and landed in the out feild of a baseball stadium. In the stadium it was totally empty. Even know it took them 30 minutes they found there way out of the stadium. they looked at the book they said the family members were hidden in the San Diego Chargers stadium which was not too far from where they were. Jack and Ryan drove to the stadium and went inside. They went to the feild and started to check in between each and every seat. After about an hour of walking through aisles Jack found Ryan's Mom to a surprise.

"Ryan! Ryan! come here quick I found your mom"

As soon as Ryan got to his mom something from the distance started to growl at them. It looked like an alien dog, but all the sudden it started to stand up and chase after them. Jack and Ryan left the weapons they had brang in there back packs which they left on the other side of the field. This was a problem they had both brang just small hand guns but they needed to get to them to save them first. They ran away from the creature and down the aisle and on the the Field. They split up, Jack went left Ryan went right. They creature followed Ryan so he sprinted in the the stands and Jack got to the bag as Jack was running for his life screaming in terror. Across the whole stadium. Just as the creature was about to kill Ryan Jack fired one bullet across the stadium and the creature dropped with a bullet in the head. Ryan was relieved yet amazed at Jacks marksmanship. "How did you do that!" Ryan screamed across the stadium. "Lucky shot" he said as if he was trying to hide something. "Oh...wow" Ryan said in a deep monotone. As soon as Ryan said That the sky went dark and thunder and lightning came out and a voice from the sky said "well done you have found someone" Ryan's mom flew up in the sky and vanished. the voice said "I will keep her safe until you find the others" Then everything went back to the sunny day it was.

Chapter Four

Hawaii

They left the football stadium and set for Hawaii. Ryan had always wanted to go to Hawaii so he was so excited. they used a plane to get there and in 2 days they were on the coast of Hawaii. They opened the book and it said that Jacks wife was in near the biggest volcano in Hawaii. they found a map of Hawaii and went for the biggest volcano. When they got there the volcano started to erupt, and they saw jacks wife. As the lava was pouring down the volcano about to hit Jacks wife Jack sprinted to get her and picked her up as the lava was less than 10 feet away. when he got to her he picked her up and ran away as fast as possible with adrenaline pumping through his whole body. They ran into the ocean so the lava could not get to them. Then all the sudden a huge title wave was coming for them and they were trapped between the wave and lava. Jack put down his wife and said “I guess this is the end..”

Ryan was scared out of his mind and could think of nothing else to do so he tried to go under the wave. Jack said “go under in three....two..one!” the wave came crashing into them as they went under getting thrown around like rag dolls, but they made it out alive to a surprise. All layed out half dead on the shore Jacks wife was vanished up into the sky. The sun went down and the storm came back. A voice came down from the sky said with a deep pitch “ you will get her back once you have completed the the whole task.”

Chapter 5

Ryan's Dad

Ryan said with aghast...”we still need to get my dad!”

“Well lets get a move on then” breathing heavily.”

Ryan and Jack both opened the book and Ryan's dad is in Antarctica.

“There is no snow gear stores in Hawaii” said Jack they flew back to the United states in new jersey is where they settled and packed for Antarctica for two days. they set off for Antarctica with the best snow gear money can buy, but they didn't buy it. in the plane they got to about half way through South America, then they ran out of gas. they only thing below them was a tropical rain forest infested with many dangerous animals. They had to parachute into it not knowing where they were at all with out there snow suits on and let the plane go flying down and crash. “

This is just great” Ryan said sarcastically “Where never gonna find my dad now.” they wandered through the jungle for about 3 days finding food and water throughout the jungle with Jacks expert survival skills. They finally got out of the jungle with a month left to find Ryan’s dad and Jacks Aunt, the one who raised him the only thing was they had no transportation. They were completely lost.....

Chapter Six

Look out below

They had no idea where they were. They walked around wherever they were for days and were starting to get worried. they turned a corner and bunch of walking fish like creatures. jack said silently “Quick get down”

“What are those things.” “I don’t know” They ran away as silent as they could. They found a road and a map laying on the ground. The airport is 1 mile away from here. They found a car and took it . Luckily, the key was in the car. They drove to the airport and were back on there way to Antarctica, but with no snow gear. They were not to far away from Antarctica and they opened the book again. It said Ryan's dad would be at the top of the highest mountain. they found his Dad at the mountain but they had no snow gear so didn't know how to get him. they were circling around the mountain for a couple minutes when Ryan got a rope and hung it out of the plane . His dad grabbed it and Ryan tied it to the plane. Slowly and steady Ryan’s dad climbed up it using all his might swaying side to side against the wind. Ryan was worried he would fall with his heart pounding faster and faster. he inched up the rope at his own pace, when he got to the top Ryan pulled him in the plane. They started to head on coarse back to America. They looked bellow them and they saw hundred of fish like creatures running towards them like maniacs . The sped up the plane and were off leaving them in the dust. As they were over the water there plane started to slow down. They noticed something was on the plane. Aliens were breaking the windows. Ryan drove the plane as Jack fought off the aliens. Jack was knocking them off the plane one by one going through them like a knife and butter. After an hour of fighting off the aliens and Ryan driving the plane all the aliens were gone. They got back to America and drove the plane right down Ryan's street in front of his house. The sky became dark and the storm was back. Ryan was sick of this world and this game and wanted to go back to the real world. All the people they had saved had appeared back on earth. They opened the book again. They said once you have saved everyone press this button. It had an arrow pointing to a button in the book. They looked down the road and saw a flood of aliens coming their way. Jack shouted "press it, quick!" Ryan pressed it and everything went pitch black. He went into a portal that was surrounded by lightning bolts. He was falling ...and falling and falling and he landed on his bed.

Chapter Seven

Back to the old days

Ryan got up and looked out his window. To a surprise everyone was outside as if nothing happened. He looked out his window for a good five minutes. He had a feeling of excitement. He slowly walked around his house and heard the sound "Ryan, it's time for school!" from his mom's voice. Ryan instead of sulking a small grin appeared on his face. Quickly rushed as happy as can be to get his school clothes on.
